VISUAL DESIGN GUIDE · V1.0 · OCTOBER 2026

One quiet identity for reading, studying and connecting scripture.

The single reference for every Berean surface: SwiftUI on iOS, iPadOS and macOS with Liquid Glass, and the Expo app on iOS and Android with Material 3 conventions. Scripture samples are from the American Standard Version (1901, public domain), John 1:1–14.

Type

Two families, one job each. The system UI font (SF Pro on Apple, Roboto on Android) handles chrome. Scripture and notes use Apple's New York on iPhone, iPad and Mac. Android uses the bundled Literata, tuned toward New York: optical size matched to the point size, regular weight for body, slightly tightened headings. Hebrew falls back to Noto Serif Hebrew set one step larger. Every size tracks Dynamic Type and Android font scale.

Reading measure

Scripture never runs wider than about 70 characters. On wide windows the column stays put and the margins grow.

> 9 There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man, coming into the world. 10 He was in the world, and the world was made through him, and the world knew him not. 11 He came unto his own, and they that were his own received him not.

Color

Semantic tokens only — no screen references a raw value. The accent is vellum rust, a deep, warm, bookish red-brown. All six highlights share one OKLCH lightness per theme; in dark mode they drop to deep, low-chroma tints behind the text. Highlights are named by color only. Color is never the only cue: VoiceOver and TalkBack speak the color name, and Differentiate Without Color (or Android high-contrast text) adds a margin shape per color. Underlines mean links only. Ratios below are computed live, text against highlight.

Highlights have no names, only colors. Color is never the only cue (WCAG 1.4.1): VoiceOver and TalkBack read the color, “Verse 1, highlighted, yellow,” and when Differentiate Without Color is on (iOS, iPadOS, macOS) or high-contrast text is on (Android), each color also gets a small shape in the margin beside any note marker: circle, square, triangle, diamond, bar, ring. Compact layouts without a margin put the shape on the verse number. Highlights are never underlined.

Material rule

Liquid Glass belongs to controls only: toolbars, the tab bar, the sidebar and floating buttons. Scripture, notes, study panes and Studyspace cards always sit on solid surfaces, so reading text is never tinted by what scrolls beneath it. On Android the same rule maps to Material tonal surfaces; nothing translucent.

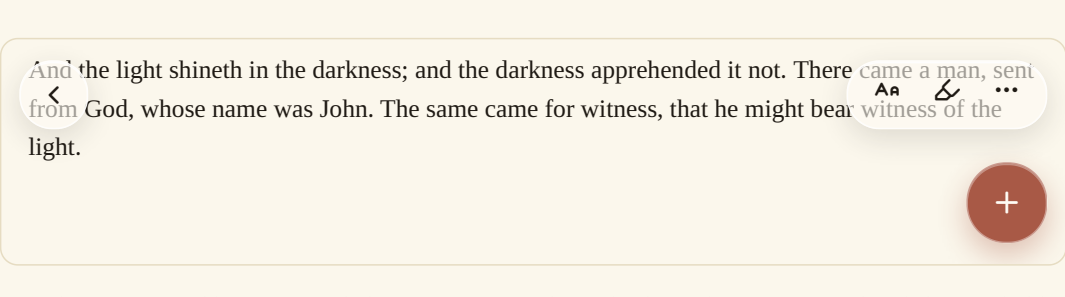
Core components

Shown in the light theme at 1×. Apple components are native SwiftUI with Berean tokens; Android components are Material 3 with the same tokens mapped to its color roles (primary = accent, surface containers = paper steps).

Glass toolbar

iOS · iPadOS · macOS

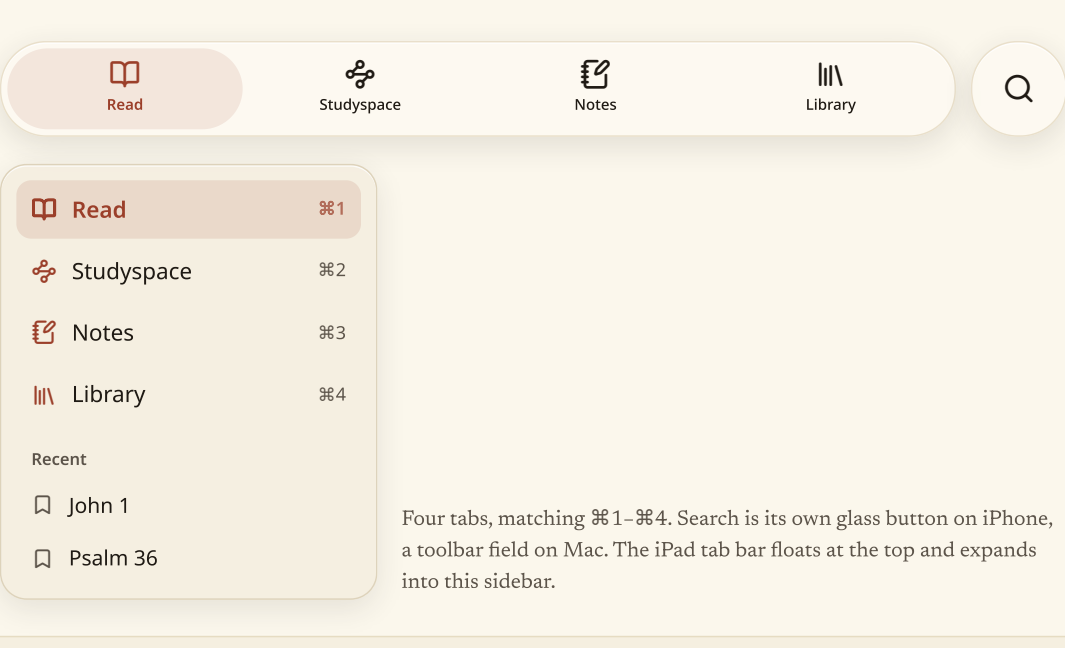


And the light shineth in the darkness; and the darkness apprehended it not. There came a man, sent from God, whose name was John. The same came for witness, that he might bear witness of the light.

Capsule groups, 44pt hit targets, symbols at 19–20pt. Prominent floating action uses accent-tinted glass. Android uses a solid small top app bar instead.

Tab bar and sidebar

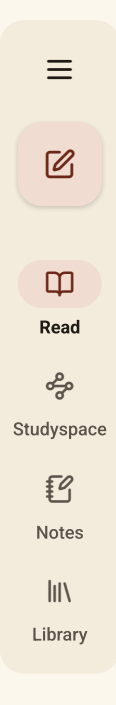
iPhone · iPad / Mac



Four tabs, matching ⌘1–⌘4. Search is its own glass button on iPhone, a toolbar field on Mac. The iPad tab bar floats at the top and expands into this sidebar.

Navigation rail

Android ≥ 600dp



Solid surface-container, never translucent. Active indicator 56×32dp in the accent's tonal container, label bold.

The FAB opens a new note at the current passage. The menu button expands the rail into a modal drawer with books and recents.

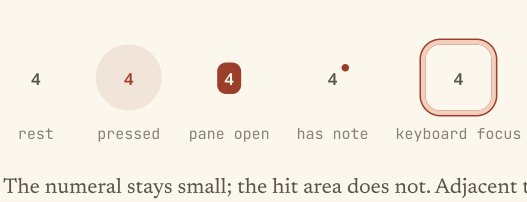
Verse number

states



The numeral stays small; the hit area does not. Adjacent targets never overlap — on dense lines the area shrinks vertically to the line box, never below 44pt wide. VoiceOver and TalkBack read each number as “Verse 16, opens study.” A number carrying a note badge reads “Verse 4, 2 notes,” with actions Study and Show notes; a plain tap still opens the last-used tab.

SECTION 03 · SIGNATURE INTERACTION

Reader with the inline study pane

Tapping a verse number splits the text and opens the study pane directly below that verse. The verses that follow are pushed down — nothing slides over the page, so your place is never covered. Four tabs: Study notes, Cross refs, Research, Footnotes. My notes is pinned to the bottom of the pane on every platform. At 1000pt (840dp on Android) and wider, the pane docks as a side split instead. On a foldable in book posture, the fold itself is the divider.

The glass sidebar and toolbar float above solid content. The pane is pinned to verse 4, so scrolling the chapter leaves it in place. The passage card in My notes came from typing “Psalm 36:9” on its own line.

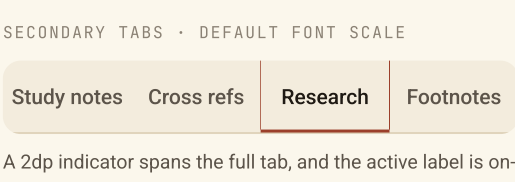
ANDROID TABLET ≥ 840DP · DOCKED SPLIT WITH NAVIGATION RAIL

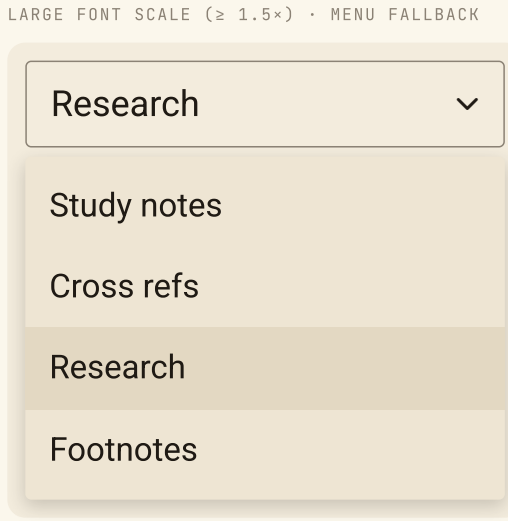
This is Material's supporting-pane layout, switched on at 840dp and wider; below 840dp the pane returns inline as on the phone. A 16dp drag handle has the same ⅓ · ½ · ⅔ snaps, and pin and dock sit in the pane header. The pane tabs are Material secondary tabs (here Research, mid-install).

SECONDARY TABS · DEFAULT FONT SCALE

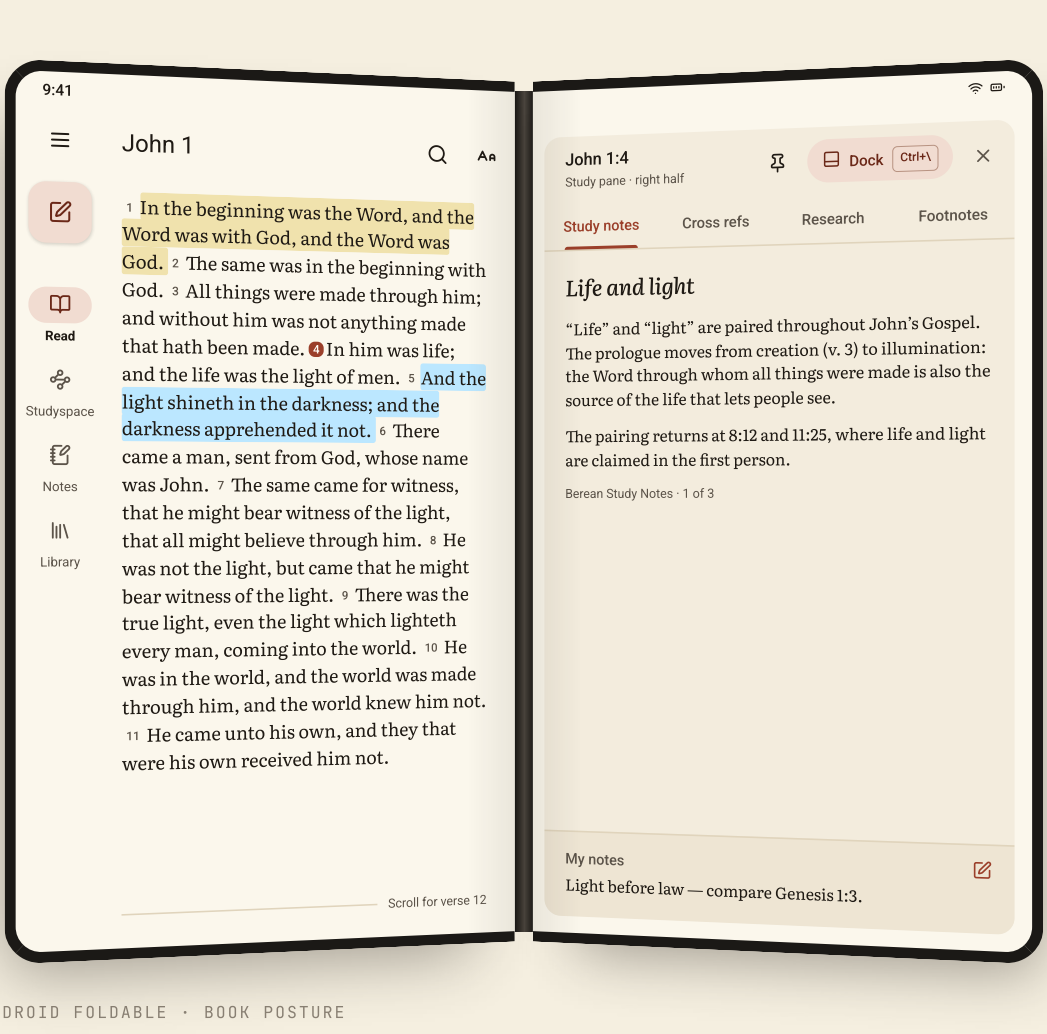


A 2dp indicator spans the full tab, and the active label is on-surface, not accent. This keeps the pane quieter than the app's primary navigation.

LARGE FONT SCALE (≥ 1.5×) · MENU FALLBACK



When four labels no longer fit at the user's font scale, the tabs become an exposed dropdown menu. TalkBack reads “Pane section, Research, 3 of 4.”



1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. 2 The same was in the beginning with God. 3 All things were made through him; and without him was not anything made that hath been made. 4 In him was life; and the life was the light of men. 5 And the light shineth in the darkness; and the darkness apprehended it not. 6 There came a man, sent from God, whose name was John. 7 The same came for witness, that he might bear witness of the light, that all might believe through him. 8 He was not the light, but came that he might bear witness of the light. 9 There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man, coming into the world. 10 He was in the world, and the world was made through him, and the world knew him not. 11 He came unto his own, and they that were his own received him not.

Light before law — compare Genesis 1:3.

ANDROID FOLDABLE · BOOK POSTURE

Scripture sits on the left half and the study pane on the right. The hinge is the divider, so there is no drag handle and no snap points. Text is laid out inside the half's bounds (WindowManager FoldingFeature), so no verse or line crosses the fold. Instead of dragging, the Dock button in the pane header or Ctrl+\ moves the pane inline under verse 4; pressing it again sends it back to the opposite half.

Omnisearch and note hyperlinks

One search with two ways in. The native search field is the main entry on every platform: the Search tab in the Liquid Glass tab bar on iPhone, the toolbar search field on iPad and Mac, the Material 3 search bar on Android. With a keyboard, ⌘K (Ctrl+K on Android) opens that same search as a centered palette. 1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. 2 The same was in the beginning with God. 3 All things were made through him; and without him was not anything made that hath been made. 4 In him was life; and the life was the light of men. 5 And the light shineth in the darkness; and the darkness apprehended it not. 6 There came a man, sent from God, whose name was John. 7 The same came for witness, that he might bear witness of the light, that all might believe through him. 8 He was not the light, but came that he might bear witness of the light. 9 There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man, coming into the world. 10 He was in the world, and the world was made through him, and the world knew him not. 11 He came unto his own, and they that were his own received him not. 12 But as many as received him, to them gave he the right to become children of God, even to them that believe on his name: 13 who were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God. 14 And the Word became flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, glory as of the only begotten from the Father), full of grace and truth.

SECTION 07

Notes

Notes are written in the reading serif and linked to scripture and publications with quiet inline links. Whatever a note references shows a marker in the reader’s margin, and the study pane is where you read and start notes in context.

7.1

Notes list and editor

Notes are Markdown files organized in nested folders and tags. A note lives in one folder and can have many tags, taken from inline #tags in the body and from the tag field in the note’s info. Regular-width Mac and iPad windows show three columns (sidebar, list, editor). iPhone and Android phones drill in from Folders to a note list to the editor. Android tablets use Material list-detail with the folder tree in a standard drawer beside the rail. The editor has two modes, Write and Read; ⌘1 and ⌘2 (Ctrl+1 and Ctrl+2 on Android) switch them while it has focus.

Notes save as you type; there’s no Save or Cancel. A new note left empty is discarded. Tapping a note in a list opens it in Read; a new note, or one with an empty body, opens in Write. The mode isn’t remembered per note. The title is its own plain-text field above the body, never Markdown. A note started from a verse puts Write | Read in the title slot and has one way out: Done on iOS, a close X as the navigation icon on Material. System back does the same as X.

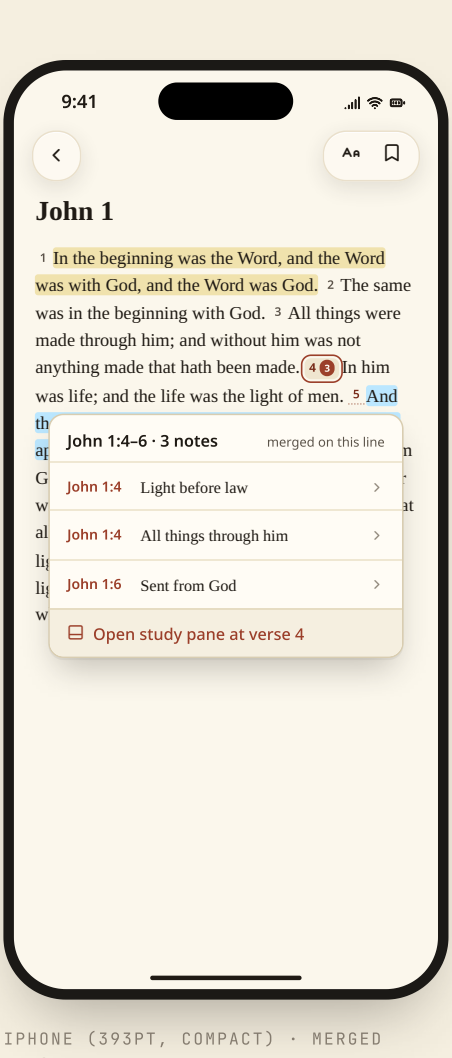
Notes inside the Bible and publications

In layouts with a margin, a note that references a verse or paragraph puts a small marker in the margin beside it. Only a tap on that margin marker opens the study pane scrolled to My notes, with the referencing note expanded and the others listed below. Compact layouts (accessibility text sizes, or phones narrower than about 400pt/dp) have no margin, so a count badge sits on the verse number instead, and the verse number keeps its usual behavior.



1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. 2 The same was in the beginning with God. 3 All things were made through him; and without him was not anything made that hath been made. 4 3 In him was life; and the life was the light of men. 5 And

Below about 400pt there is no margin, so the count sits on the verse number, inside the number's 44pt target. Verses 4 and 6 have notes and share a line, so they merge into one badge on verse 4 that opens this short list. VoiceOver reads "John 1:4 to 6, 3 notes."

VoiceOver and TalkBack read the number as "Verse 4, 2 notes" with two actions, Study and Show notes; Show notes is what jumps to My notes.

ANDROID PHONE · SAME PANE, MATERIAL

At 412dp this phone is wider than the compact threshold, so it keeps the margin. Tapping the marker opened the pane at My notes, so no tab is selected; tapping a tab scrolls up to it. Markers use the 48dp hit area.

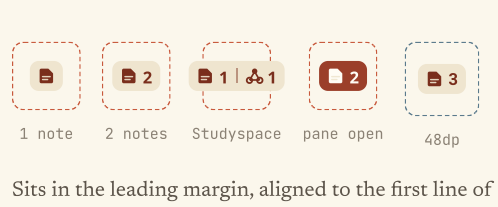
MAC · DOCKED SIDE PANE

At 1000pt and wider the marker opens the docked pane instead, with the same My notes state. Markers stay in the reading column's margin, so the pane never covers them.

Gutter marker



Sits in the leading margin, aligned to the first line of the verse or paragraph. It never enters the text flow, so line breaks are identical with or without notes. 44×44pt hit area on Apple, 48×48dp on Android. Only layouts with a margin show it; compact layouts use the verse-number badge.

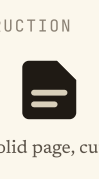
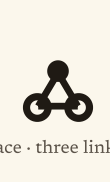
CONSTRUCTION



Note · solid page, cut corner



Studyspace · three linked nodes

Neither glyph comes from SF Symbols or Material Symbols. Both are drawn on a 16-unit grid and bundled with the apps (a vector PDF template image on Apple, a VectorDrawable on Android), so iOS, macOS and Android show the same shapes. The silhouettes differ on purpose: the note is a solid block, the Studyspace mark is open nodes and lines. They stay distinct at 12pt next to a count, in grayscale, and at the largest text size, where the marker scales with Dynamic Type and font scale.

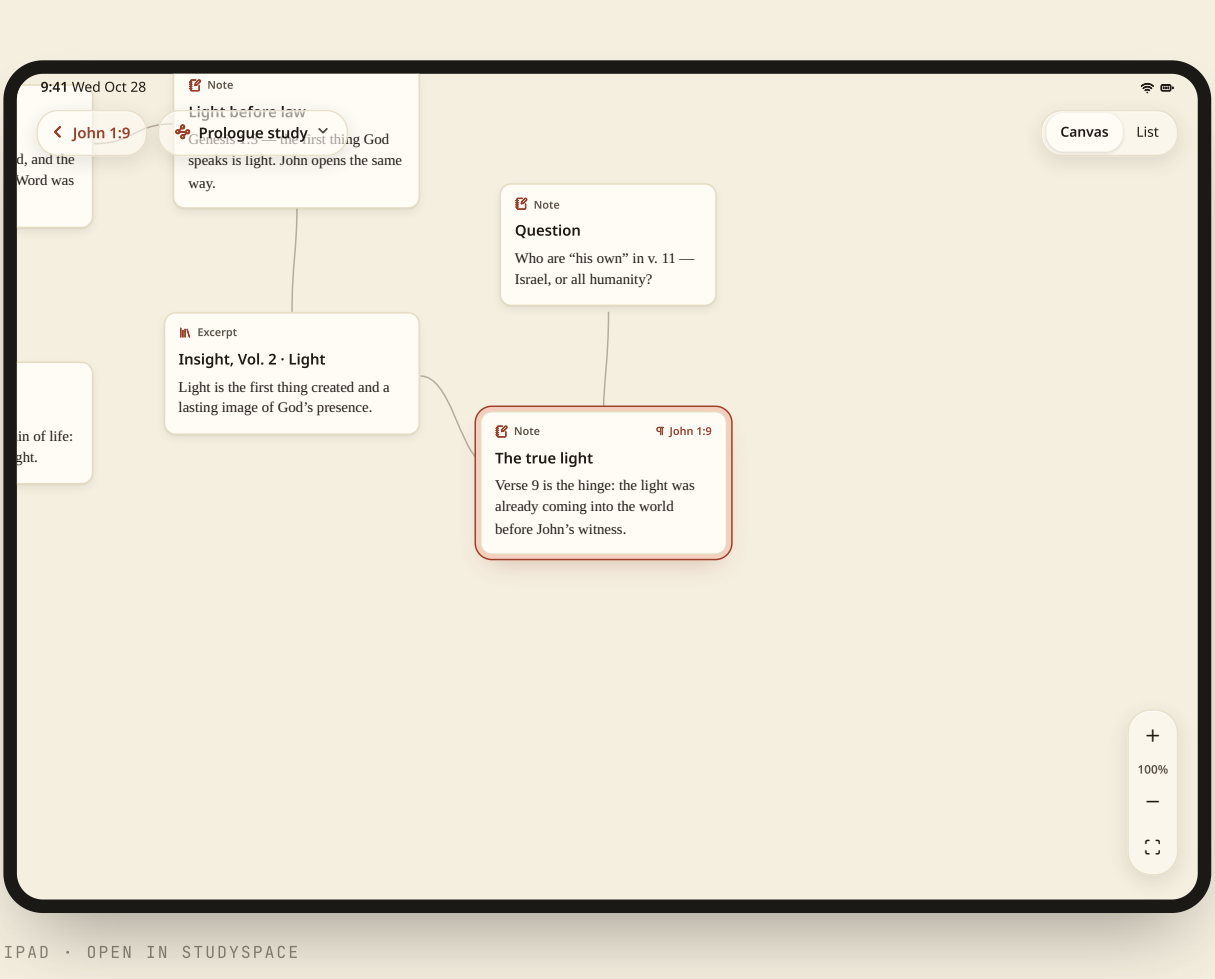
Studyspace notes in the reader

Notes that live on a Studyspace canvas use the same gutter marker with a Studyspace glyph added. In the pane, each shows a chip naming its workspace and an Open in Studyspace button that jumps to that workspace, centered on the card, with the card briefly highlighted.



Note — Light before law
… thing God speaks is light. John opens the same way.

Note — Question
Who are "his own" in v. 11 — Israel, or all humanity?

Excerpt — Insight, Vol. 2 · Light
Light is the first thing created and a lasting image of God's presence.

Note — John 1:9 — The true light
Verse 9 is the hinge: the light was already coming into the world before John's witness.

IPAD · OPEN IN STUDYSPACE

The Studyspace tab opens on Prologue study, centered on the card, with the ring showing. The leading glass button is a back-to-reader affordance labeled with the verse; it returns to John 1:9 with the pane still open.

MAC · OPENS OR FOCUSES THE WORKSPACE WINDOW

Each workspace opens in its own window. If Prologue study is already open, that window comes forward and pans to the card; otherwise a new window opens beside the reader. The reader window keeps its pane.

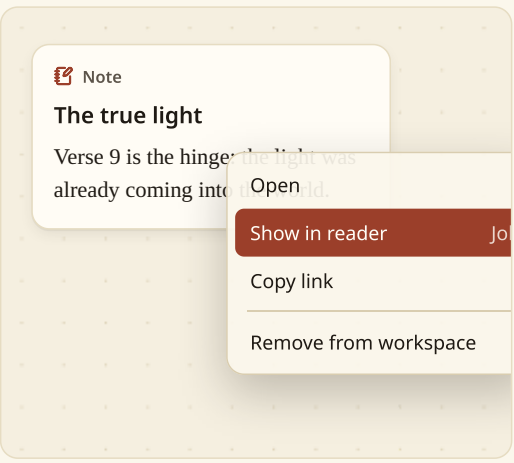
ANDROID TABLET · STUDYSPACE NOTES IN THE DOCKED PANE

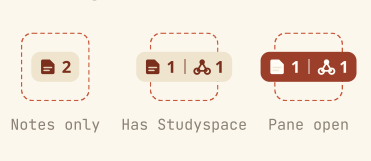
Workspace chips are outlined assist chips. Open in Studyspace switches the rail to Studyspace and centers the card; system back returns to the reader at verse 9.

From Studyspace: Show in reader



Right-click on Mac, long press on touch (a Material menu on Android). Show in reader opens the chapter scrolled to the verse with the pane open at My notes. If the card references several passages, the item becomes a submenu.

Telling the two apart



A verse with Studyspace notes shows both glyphs in one marker with a split count, so the difference is a shape: 1 plain note, 1 in Studyspace. VoiceOver and TalkBack read it as "2 notes, 1 in Studyspace." Both glyphs are custom shapes bundled by both apps, so Android draws the identical marker: 1 | 1. In the pane, each Studyspace note carries a chip naming its workspace.

Arrival highlight

Open in Studyspace centers the workspace on the card at 100% and draws a rust ring for 1.5s, then fades it over 320ms. With Reduce Motion, the canvas jumps instead of panning; the ring still shows.
